Your Business Belongs in the Conversation.

If you work in the building industry, SCWBA was built for you.

Every day, contractors and subcontractors across South Central Wisconsin are looking for the next project, the next customer, the next trusted business partner—and the next opportunity to make their voice heard.

The question is:

Will your company be part of that network?

The South Central Wisconsin Builders Association has been promoting and protecting our local building industry since 1947. Today, SCWBA brings together builders, remodelers, subcontractors, trades, developers, suppliers, professionals and businesses that serve our industry. And we believe our network should be bigger.

Your company should be in it.

Membership is more than a logo on a website.

It puts your business where people are already looking for trusted professionals.

SCWBA actively promotes the philosophy "Do Business With a Member." Our membership directory gives consumers and fellow industry professionals a place to find your company—and membership gives us the opportunity to know who you are, understand what you do and confidently recommend you when the right opportunity comes along.

But the directory is only the beginning.

Your membership can help you:

GET FOUND.

Be included in the SCWBA membership network and directory, where consumers and industry professionals can discover your company.

BUILD RELATIONSHIPS.

Connect with builders, subcontractors, suppliers, developers and other professionals through meetings, events, committees and networking opportunities.

GET RECOGNIZED.

Take advantage of opportunities to showcase your company, expertise, projects and people through SCWBA events, communications and promotional opportunities.

GROW YOUR BUSINESS.

From the Parade of Homes and Home Show to sponsorships, community projects and other events, SCWBA creates opportunities to put your company in front of people who matter.

HAVE A VOICE.

Government decisions, regulations, zoning, building codes and public policy can directly affect your business. SCWBA advocates for the interests of our industry so you don't have to face those issues alone.

SAVE MONEY.

Your SCWBA membership automatically connects you to the Wisconsin Builders Association (WBA) and National Association of Home Builders (NAHB)—giving you a powerful 3-in-1 membership with access to additional education, affinity programs, discounts and resources.

KEEP LEARNING.

Access educational opportunities covering business management, compliance, building technology, safety and more.

But here's the part we don't want you to miss.

SCWBA is a member-driven organization.

That means this isn't our network. It's yours.

The more good companies that join, the stronger the network becomes for everyone.

More contractors means more subcontractors.

More subcontractors means more connections.

More connections mean more opportunities.

More members mean a stronger voice for our industry.

And when consumers see a company connected to SCWBA, we want that membership to mean something:

Professional. Connected. Invested in the industry. Invested in our community.

We aren't asking you to join just to put another association logo on your website.

We're asking you to become part of the network that can help your business grow—and help strengthen the industry you depend on.

If you've been considering membership, this is your invitation.
